TELLS
THAT

N Aotearoa New Zealand, 24% of children or 260,000 are living in poverty, and for 186,000 of these, the effects of poverty have been a reality in their lives for more than 7 years... Poverty is the single most obvious factor in family violence... The longer children live in poverty, the greater the risk of harm to their current health and cognitive development and the greater the risk to their future capability... Our future as a nation depends on the capability of our children and their capability depends on our pledge to uphold and make real their rights...

In September 2014, the Child Poverty Action Group (CPAG) published Our children, our choice: priorities for policy. They urge a shift in government policy to “a child-centred future” and offer a range of recommendations with regard to needed changes to public policy to support this.*

While it is certainly important to concern ourselves with broader social needs and invest in trying to influence cultural values, economic systems and public policies, the work of Stand is focused on preventing and healing the harm caused by poverty, violence and other forms of childhood maltreatment.

Poverty is the single most obvious factor in family violence and often sits alongside other forms of maltreatment. There is a significant body of evidence describing how exposure to violence and other forms of maltreatment in childhood can disrupt normal neuro-development, which in turn can result in a wide variety of social, emotional and cognitive impairments. These impairments often lead children to adopt a number of health-risk behaviours like drinking, drugs, smoking and unsafe sexual behaviours. Over time, these behaviours and their associated antisocial lifestyles lead to disease, disability, social problems and ultimately premature death.

The connection between poverty, violence, other forms of maltreatment and significantly poor life outcomes is often overlooked because the connection is complex and occurs over a lifetime. Even when one recognises the connection, it is easy to be discouraged by the destructive force of adverse childhood experiences unless one knows the powerful influence that one person can provide in the life of a child, particularly if they understand the impact of trauma and how best to support healing and recovery.

While poverty, violence and maltreatment continue to exist, we must learn to recognise, understand and respond to the complex and traumatic current and past experiences of children and their families. These experiences exert a powerful influence on their lives every day. Feeling constantly unsafe, being unable to manage emotions, feeling overcome by grief and loss and being unable to imagine a future are their constant companions.

As we all know, making daily decisions and choices is difficult enough without being exposed to poverty, violence and maltreatment. When children are exposed to continuous stress and multiple episodes of fear over time, learning from the past and being able to predict future outcomes is hard to achieve as is recognising and modifying mistakes and understanding right from wrong. Compelled to re-enact the past, these children can re-experience daily the shame, the grief, the failure and their negative view of self, others and the world. This in turn can plunge them into an ever-spiralling cycle of conflict with others.

At Stand Children's Services, our staff are trained to see children of promise, not children at risk; to understand the powerful influence that one person can provide to a child; and to recognise that the behavioural symptoms, cognitive distortions, lack of emotional regulation, inability to know right from wrong and the consequences associated with that are all evidence of harm caused by maltreatment.

Such harm is best described as an "injury". Children injured by exposure to unrelenting poverty, violence and maltreatment require the same approach as children suffering from other serious injuries. Staff charged with their care must learn enough about the nature and course of the injuries to enable them to assume responsibility for helping those injuries to heal. Alongside this, they must work with the child's family, school and community to enable them to do whatever is necessary to remove obstacles in the way of each child's recovery, taking into account the disabling effect of their injury and creating circles of positive influence to sustain safety and healing and grow their wellbeing.

Alongside addressing the determinants of poverty, it is also critically important when working with children of promise that we renew both their individual sense of hope and their family's sense of hope and awaken their frozen imaginations. In doing this, we create the possibility of different life choices and provide experiences that maximise the possibility of the child and their family making choices that do not re-enact the past.

All of us working in the children's sector come across children, and often their families, who are experts in getting people to reject them, to prove their view of themselves as unworthy, that adults or people in general are not to be trusted and the world is an unsafe and unforgiving place. When we are most tempted to give up, when we most want to walk away, that is the time when the child and their family most need every one of us to make a stand. To turn around, face them with love and courage and say, "We believe in you". In so doing, we renew our pledge to honour their right to safety, wellbeing, equality and a bright and meaningful future. _____

I will never be lost

sown from Rangiātea

We have used the image of the Māori flag in this annual report because it has become largely synonymous with the concept of tino rangatiratanga or self-determination and the concept of mana motuhake – that I am free to be the person my ancestors determined that I be.

The colours of the flag beautifully reflect the journey travelled by the children and families we support – moving from isolation to connection, darkness to light, potential to promise and loss of identity to reclaiming who I was born to be...

BLACK represents Te Korekore (the realm of potential being). It thus symbolises the long darkness from which the earth emerged, as well as signifying Rangi – the heavens, a male, formless, floating, passive force.

WHITE represents Te Ao Mārama (the realm of being and light). It symbolises the physical world, purity, harmony, enlightenment and balance.

RED represents Te Whāi Ao (coming into being). It symbolises Papatūānuku, the earth-mother, the sustainer of all living things, and thus both the land and active forces.

The spiral-like KORU, symbolic of a curling fern frond, represents the unfolding of new life, hope for the future and the process of RENEWAL.

E must RENEW our pledge to create the conditions of equality for our children of promise so they can enjoy loving and respectful care; protection from abuse and neglect; nutritious food to support health and growth; access to warm, dry housing; and access to appropriate health, education and social support. This is the theme of this Annual Report.

Stand with us to outlaw the conditions that harm our children of promise. Let our country and our communities be examples of peace, justice and development.

Like the sea, let us send wave upon wave of effort to create a more compassionate, caring and sharing society where all children's rights are respected and honoured and all families share in our prosperity. _____

Aotearoa New Zealand has pledged certain rights to our children, founded in recognition of Te Tiriti o Waitangi. As well as UNCROC, we are also a signatory to the United Nations International Convention of the Rights of Indigenous People.

When we pledge to honour the rights of iwi/Māori children, we commit to their right to:

- know their whakapapa and their whānau, hapū and iwi connections
- know their marae and waka and the kawa of both
- know their kōrero tawhito (history)
- learn and be taught in their reo rangatira (indigenous tongue)

- know the tikanga of their tūpuna (values and philosophies)
 - be valued and respected as tangata whenua in Aotearoa
 - be taught the waiata, mōteatea and arts of their tūpuna
 - know the concepts of oranga for the wellbeing of their taha, wairua, tinana, hinengaro and whānau
 - expect Te Tiriti o Waitangi to be honoured for the benefit of the mana of their tūpuna and the future of their mokopuna
 - expect safety, protection, love and hope
 - know they are descendants of Atua.

OUR VISION

A world strong with children.

We stand together to bring hope to New Zealand's most vulnerable children. We help children and their families to stand up and be strong. We stand against isolation and fear. We take a stand, acting with urgency to deliver solutions that make a child's world a safer, happier and healthier place. We nurture the dreams and aspirations of our nation's children, allowing them to find their tūrangawaewae - 'their place to stand'.

MISSION

To transform the lives of children and young people aged 5 to 12 who are at significant risk of harm to their wellbeing as a consequence of the environment in which they are being raised and their own complex needs.

For each child, we seek to develop their capacity to live in healthy, hopeful relationships with others. On this depends all of the other necessary outcomes that contribute to their ability to enjoy life and reach their potential.

OUR VALUES

OUR APPROACH AND OUTCOMES

OUR APPROACH

Our strategic intent is to ensure lasting outcomes for all vulnerable children using a partnership approach with every organisation active and interested in making New Zealand a safer, healthier and happier place for our children.

We provide nationwide services that protect our most vulnerable children from further trauma, support their recovery and enhance their wellbeing.

Stand Children's Services are therefore structured to achieve:

- reducing risk and increasing protection for children through an intensive wraparound multisystemic approach to change within the family and community of the child.
- supporting children's recovery and improving the wellbeing of children through the provision of an integrated therapeutic care and education service.

Three principles underpin our approach:

1. Harm caused by relationships is best healed by relationships.
2. A child's home and family, school and teachers, neighbourhood and friends all play a critical role in a child's world and each system requires attention to improve a child's quality of life.
3. Transformative environments that provide therapeutic relationships and experiences of belonging, mastery, independence and generosity are quicker and more effective for a child's journey of recovery.

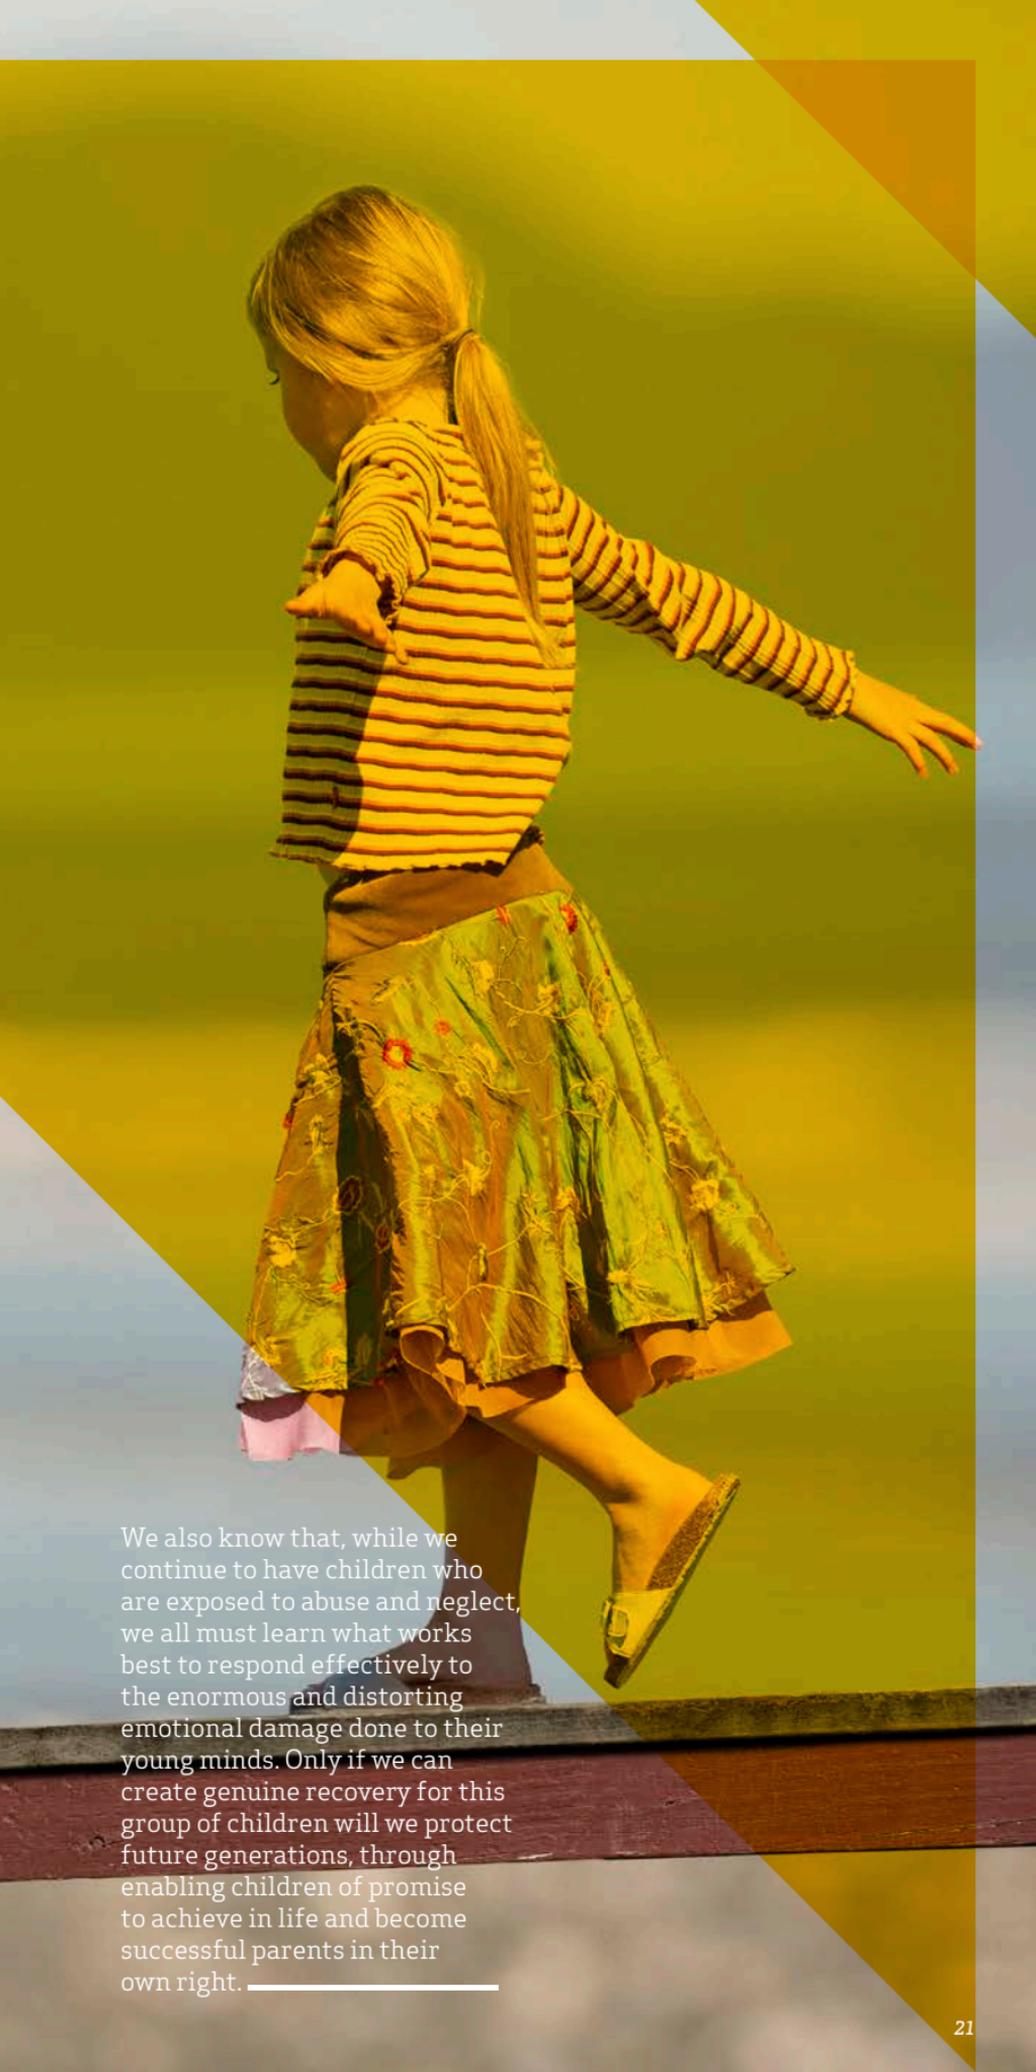

OUR OUTCOMES

In everything we do, our efforts are focused on achieving and measuring the following outcomes:

- Children are safe in their home and school.
- Family functioning is improved.
- Children's mental, emotional and physical health is improved.
- Children's and parents' social problem solving ability is increased.
- Children's antisocial and at-risk behaviour is reduced.
- Children's engagement with learning is improved.

Stand Children's Services are trauma informed, meaning that delivery is grounded in an understanding and responsiveness to the impact of trauma that emphasises physical, psychological and emotional safety for children and creates opportunities for them to rebuild a sense of control and empowerment and rediscover a love of relating and learning.

Stand acknowledges that families with multiple and complex problems are also often situated within a wider context of poverty, disadvantage, isolation and exclusion and that this has significant ramifications for the intensity and complexity of service delivery. We know that we need to continue to advocate for solutions to socio-economic deprivation and disadvantage while also doing what we can to promote resiliency and build parenting capacity.

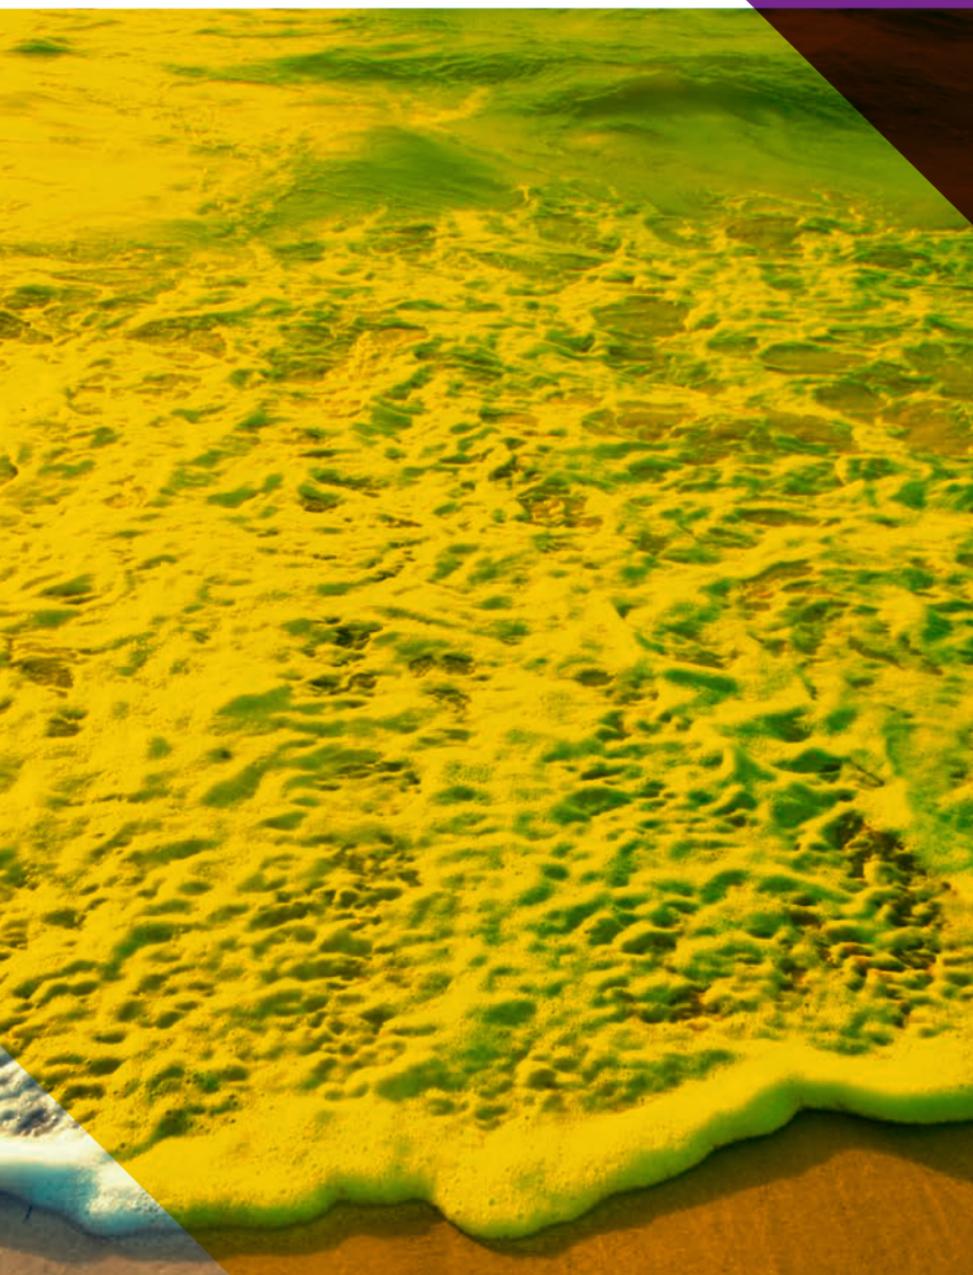

We also know that, while we continue to have children who are exposed to abuse and neglect, we all must learn what works best to respond effectively to the enormous and distorting emotional damage done to their young minds. Only if we can create genuine recovery for this group of children will we protect future generations, through enabling children of promise to achieve in life and become successful parents in their own right. _____

WHAT PEOPLE SAY ABOUT US

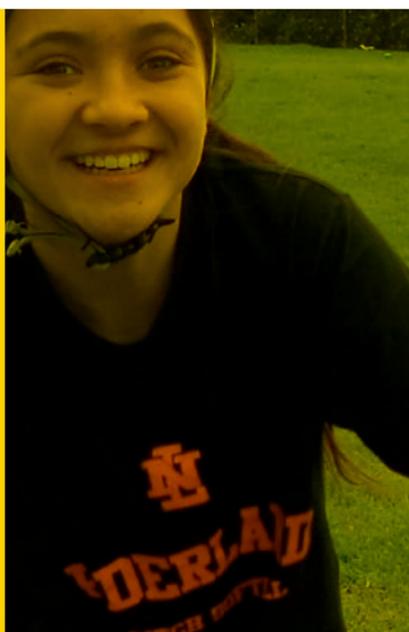

He is very settled and looks a lot more relaxed. A happy, chirpy, energetic child who is proud to highlight his achievements. Teacher / The classrooms are bright and colourful, but most of all have a sense of peace and safety which I know is important for the children. Teacher / Fantastic facility. The family tell me that they are having a really great time and have learnt a lot. Lucky children to experience this wonderful place. Public Health Nurse / Love Stand. Children very happy and excited to talk about their experiences. Fabulous setting. Loved the small classrooms and the one-on-one attention the children were receiving from their teachers. Very approachable, friendly staff willing to answer all questions. Teacher / Your staff are all wonderful people leading by example with love and understanding. Teacher / It is awesome to see her growth since she's been here. Teacher / Love all the colours. Teacher / Great job team! Teacher / It is pleasing to know that he has settled in well in his new environment. He freely communicated with me and really enjoyed showing me around. He seems to be managing himself very well. He was able to talk me through some of the strategies he would use to manage his anger. Teacher / She has really blossomed. It is lovely to see her happy and smiling. Teacher / This has been a great process – very successful results. I will not hesitate to refer more families. Referral Agent / The family gave really positive feedback about their experience in the village and have continued to use the skills, strategies and language learnt through the workshops. Referral Agent / Stand Children's Services responded immediately and have remained as a well needed, readily available, support network throughout. I cannot thank you enough. I felt today was the start of something good, it was certainly more positive than the last agency meeting I attended for the family, so here's to another new beginning! Referral Agent / I have been working as a Public Health Nurse for 9 years and continue to be amazed by the positive outcomes of children attending Stand Children's Services. Referral Agent / Very professional and appropriate. By far the best agency to work with. Referral Agent / Overall fantastic supports for families with great follow through. PHN Referral Agent / You are all doing such a unique and crucial job with these kids, who otherwise would be at sea. GSE Referral Agent / I was very appreciative of the effort both staff made to come up to the school and meet with staff/management about Stand Services and supports for child/family involved. They had on-going communication with me, which supported a collaborative approach to better support the client/whānau. Thank you. Social Worker in Schools / To me, cultural responsibilities is all about fostering engagement with any part of our community and Stand always does this so well through its clear focus on positive, nurturing interactions with trustworthy staff. Referral Agent / He came back a lot more social and very relaxed. School / Extremely satisfied! I always find every member of the Stand team is highly supportive, understanding and above all non-judgmental. Deputy Principal / I think Stand does a terrific job at helping young children become more assertive and confident learners. Deputy Principal / The benefits of the stay and of the work done with him and his mum continued to help him with increasingly good results through to the end of the school year. Teacher / All those involved with the plan would rate the impact as extremely positive. He was a young man who had experienced major trauma through witnessing domestic violence. The provision of a safe place with routines and limits with additional therapeutic input will make a big impact in providing his future with positive outcomes. Teacher / The change in the confidence levels of my students is phenomenal. I am very proud of their progress. Thank you for the great job you have done. Teacher / Fantastic!! I am blown away by the enthusiasm, change and growth in confidence. Such a chatter box! I love it! Teacher / Having a service that can objectively assess the situation for children then provide appropriate interventions to address problems identified in their wider environments is extremely important in breaking the ever-enduring cycle for families. Stand fills a void in providing such services to address our poor child statistics in New Zealand. Keep up the good work. Public Health Nurse / Since my child attended Stand, her confidence has sky rocketed. Her communication skill level has been elevated highly with sharing her thoughts and feelings. Her health has improved 100% and she is no longer in trainers. Caregiver / Your organisation is awesome. We were so blessed as a whānau to have our child spend time with Stand. The support given to our family was above and beyond duty. Thank you. Aunty / Stand Children's Village in Gisborne was a great place to support. It's a local charity that makes the world a better place for children and youth who face challenges on a daily basis. Sponsor / On behalf of the Gisborne Olympic Pool Complex, I would like to acknowledge the wonderful mahi and service that Stand Children's Services offers for our community. Community Supporter / 5/5 awesome. Parent / Keep up the great mahi. Referral Agent / Can't wait to "STAND" with you all in future.

So very grateful for all of your positive input into the future and wellbeing of our children! Thank you! Parent / I think you are just great. You are not only there for the children but their families as well. Thank you so much! Parent / Impeccable from start to finish. Parent / Thanks to the staff for the great work you do. God bless you from me and my family. Parent / In my experiences with Stand, I have found the whole journey positive from initial contact to final report, it is overwhelmingly positive. Referral Agent / I think the changes that have been made over the last few years have been great. The Community Social Workers spend more time with the children and families, and they communicate very effectively with the referrers, the school and the families. Referral Agent / Thank you for all of your hard work. My son is doing really well at the moment. Parent / It is truly a wonderful experience for our most vulnerable families, and often the change is small but significant – the seed is sown. It is some years later when you talk to these families again that you realise how positive an impact Stand has had on their lives. Referral Agent / Excellent service, my child did so well at Stand. Outstanding! Parent / I feel that Stand provides a great resource in the community. Parent / The activities were awesome, and I loved dancing and singing, I feel independent. Child / Thank you so much for giving me the opportunity to come and have a lovely stay. I enjoyed myself very much, and I am disappointed that I can't come again. Child / I learnt to have a good attitude and not give up. Child / My Dad would be so proud of me, I can ride my bike! Child / I feel safe here, the staff listen to me. Child / I get to have fun and I enjoyed my stay at the village.

MESSAGE FROM THE CHAIRMAN AND CHIEF EXECUTIVE

TĒNĀ KOUTOU,
TALOFA LAVA, KIA ORANA,
FAKAALOFA LAHI ATU,
MALO E LELEI, BULA VINAKA,
TALOHA NI, WARM PACIFIC
GREETINGS.

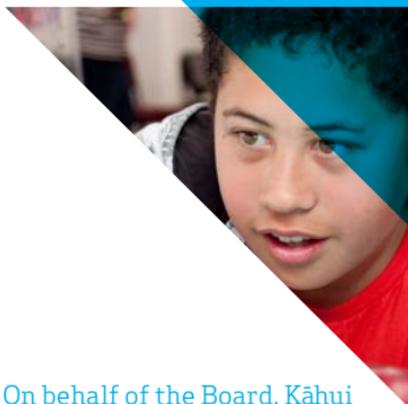

We are honoured and proud to present the 2014 Annual Report and to reflect upon the significant achievements of Stand over the last year.

It has been a year marked by a spirit of renewal and revitalisation with a major focus on the four key strategies from our Strategic Plan:

- Building sustainable funding and resources
- Providing effective leadership
- Growing our people
- Telling our story.

In 2013/14 we designed our Business Plan around our strategic priorities. This joint report reflects this, setting out our key achievements for 2013/14 against these priorities.

Building sustainable funding and resources

We aim to build sustainable funding and resources through enhanced funding agreements and new revenue generation for service delivery, new service development, sector innovation, workforce development and capital works.

This year, we have achieved an important milestone of putting all our existing contracts for services with both the Ministry of Social Development (MSD) and the Ministry of Education (MoE) under one funding agreement, with one approvals process from MSD and significantly reduced reporting requirements. Aligned with this work was the development of a new Service Specification for our largest contracts with both Ministries, integrating these services into one and renaming them as the Stand for Children Service.

In April, the Governor-General, Lieutenant General The Right Honourable Sir Jerry Mateparae and Lady Janine Mateparae officially opened our new children's village in Christchurch, aptly named Te Ao Mārama. Three years in the making and with $10 million of investment a dearly held dream is now a reality.

Te Ao Mārama is an incredible achievement, and we know the children and families at the heart of Stand's services will benefit from this new space, purpose designed to promote their wellbeing and support their path to recovery.

On behalf of the Board, Kāhui Kaumātua and management, we would like to thank everyone involved with Stand for their ongoing support, commitment and dedication to this project and to the restoration of full services in the region.

We particularly need to acknowledge Project Director Tess Browne from the Building Intelligence Group and Stand Trustee, appointed governance representative Helen Eskett, and other Board members and Kāhui Kaumātua for their ongoing commitment to this crucial project. It is without a doubt thanks to these people and good governance that this project was brought to a successful conclusion.

Fifteen years ago, we made a decision to subdivide and sell some land in Auckland to generate some capital. Astute financial management of those funds has gone on to help fund capital investment in a number of Stand's Children's Villages, including Auckland, Gisborne, Rotorua and, this year, at Te Ao Mārama in Christchurch.

We work closely with government, who provide funding for service delivery but not for capital needs that those services rely on. This means the Board is always focused on finding and building funds for facility development and other large capital investments such as vehicles and IT.

This often means fundraising. Stand received the surprise of a lifetime when we were selected Vulnerability can be defined as an exposure to a marked decrease in standard of living. It is of special concern when it is prolonged, and when standards of living fall below critical thresholds, to a point of deprivation.

JOSEPH STIGLITZ, NOBEL LAUREATE

to receive half a million dollars from the Christchurch Earthquake Appeal towards rebuilding our Christchurch facility. A huge thank you must go to all the people throughout New Zealand and around the world who donated to that fund. Another huge thank you to the Glenelg Children's Health Camp Charitable Trust who donated $600,000 for an indoor heated swimming pool ensuring the children can relax, have fun and learn water safety all year round.

This year, Stand was also fortunate to receive funding from the New Zealand Red Cross Earthquake Appeal Social Worker in Schools Funding in Christchurch to ensure the continuation of a service previously known as Field Worker in Schools in close to 30 Christchurch intermediate and primary schools. New funding agreements were also entered into with MSD for a new Social Worker in Schools service in the Far North, a Strengthening Families Contract in Christchurch and more recently a Youth Worker in Secondary Schools Service in Dargaville High School.

A key issue for governance and management is Stand's financial sustainability, which will mean we can continue to grow, ensuring we have enough reserves so that Stand can weather any unforeseen tough times, and funding the rebuild/refurbishment of our three remaining older facilities that will need significant investment in the near future.

Stand's financial result for 2013/14 was a total reported surplus of $1.1 million. This surplus includes two one-off payments relating to the sale of property and the wind-down of the Children's Health Camp Charitable Trust totalling close to $1 million. Our investments continued to perform strongly at 16% return for the year, and it is important to note that, without the income generated from our investments, we would have had a loss of just over $800,000 for the 2013/14 financial year. This is a disappointing outcome in a year during which we otherwise managed our operations largely within budget parameters.

Providing effective leadership

Our efforts to position Stand Children's Services as a leader of integrated, child-centred, family-respectful, trauma-aware, solution-focused and culturally competent practice has led us to being involved in a number of government-led initiatives under the Children's Action Plan. These include a secondment of one of our regional managers to the Regional Children's Director role in Rotorua for 6 months, being a member of the Expert Advisory Group to the National Children's Director and being a member of the Workforce Advisory Group of the Children's Action Plan.

In the previous financial year Stand had undertaken significant work in developing and articulating our evidence base, which supports our service model and intervention logic and the outcomes that result from our services.

We began working with MSD and MoE in the 2013/14 year to develop a scoping document for an outcome trial applying to a number of components of the organisation's existing contracts with both MSD and MoE. Stand was selected for an ISO trial because there is a high level of priority from government placed on reducing child maltreatment and vulnerability, which is a major focus of Stand's work

- it is likely that good baseline client information can be captured through Stand's use of validated, predictive tools such as the Strengths and Difficulties Questionnaire and Adult Adolescent Parenting Inventory-version 2 and Stand's evidence base and service model intervention logic were already developed
- we were open to trialling different ways of measuring client outcomes alongside our existing ones to strengthen our service framework.

Alongside the outcomes trial, we have made a decision to move away from our bespoke client management system FREEDOM. With pressure to deliver on new outcomes reporting to government and further time pressure to move off the current platform, we have found an off-the-shelf solution that offers a timely and cost-effective model with reduced risk.

Stand loses the opportunity to make any return on the intellectual property of FREEDOM, but the required capital outlay to develop FREEDOM into a commercial product and a lack of confirmed customers to offset costs made such a large-scale development a proposition that carried too great a risk of failure and hence the Board's decision to take a different approach. We plan to have the new system operating by early 2015.

Growing our people

Our efforts to protect our people and continue to build capability and capacity, in particular, to identify, grow and develop future professionals and leaders in child-centred practice and collaboration, has continued to bear fruit this year. Our key priority has been and we continue to proactively prepare for the implementation of compulsory registration of social workers, which we believe is long overdue in New Zealand, as is the achievement of pay equity for the profession.

Nearly all of our community and school social workers are now registered or registrable as are a large percentage of our regional managers and team leaders. All of our teachers are fully registered. The ongoing professionalisation of our workforce is now ably supported by our national social work and education advisors, and last year, 21 of our staff profited from the government's NGO scholarships. We also saw the recipient of our Board's PhD scholarship successfully submit in June of this year.

Our national training manager has continued our training emphasis on our core competencies and being trauma informed, with several new members of our staff being selected to be trained as trainers for the Residential Child and Youth Care Professional qualification and the Circle of Courage Programme. Many more staff have been trained to facilitate the Seasons for Growth grief and loss programme, and staff in each region have been trained in new therapeutic practices and techniques from the Theraplay programme. Our emphasis on Non Violent Crisis Intervention and Life Space Crisis Intervention has continued to intensify alongside the growing challenge and complexity of the children and families we work with. 70% of the children referred in the last year had difficulties with self-regulation, the highest this statistic has ever been, and it reflects a growing social epidemic that will continue to impact on workplace safety. We need to remain vigilant in our efforts to keep children and staff safe and continue to grow our capacity to compassionately respond to both children's and adults' deep despair and loss of hope, angry and violent outbursts, overwhelming grief, tensions and tears. Our training emphasis in the year ahead will continue to focus on how to reach children and families who do not want to be reached, how to redirect their anxiety and emotions and how to turn a crisis into an opportunity for achieving connection, healing, empathy and insight.

Telling our story

Enabling our communities and our funders to understand who we are and what we do has been hugely enhanced in our first year of using our new name and branding. It has truly been a time of growth and heightened visibility for Stand. Stand is our new name, and it carries with it a 93-year history of hope and healing. Our Kāhui Kaumātua also gifted us a name – Tū Māia Whānau – which describes the type of stand we make – that it is in our nature to stand for children, for family, with confidence and expectation of a bright and meaningful future.

Standing together with others to bring hope to New Zealand's most vulnerable children. Helping children and families to stand up and be strong. Standing against isolation and fear. Taking a stand with urgency. Nurturing the dreams and aspirations of our nation's children, allowing them to find their tūrangawaewae – their place to stand. These are not just words to us – they drive our thinking and actions every single day.

We see many new faces every day, not just numbers, but hurting children and families. To help them on their journey from vulnerability to resilience is the very essence of our work. When a hurting family comes to us for help, there is most often a heart-breaking history of trauma that has left them unable to cope with everyday life. No child wants to be a “bad” child and be rejected by family, school and community. No parent wants to be a “bad” parent, unable to pay bills, isolated, unable to feed their children or themselves properly, living in cold and damp conditions, unable to see a future. For the adults, sometimes the cause is circumstantial: unemployment, poverty, rising costs of living, lack of basic life skills or having a criminal record. Many times, the cause is a much deeper struggle: trauma, domestic violence, broken families, mental illness and addictive behaviour.

Whatever the cause, the condition of families who come to us for help is almost always the same. Below the surface, they're trapped in isolation, relational brokenness and deep-seated emotional pain and loss of hope. It is important that we tell the story of their felt experience in their daily life.

What is of most concern to them, along with the obvious concerns of lack of income and insufficient voice in the matters that affect their lives, is insecurity – vulnerability. We hear this word so often these days, but what does it really mean?

Joseph Stiglitz, Nobel Laureate in Economics, says that vulnerability can be “defined as an exposure to a marked decrease in standard of living. It is of special concern when it is prolonged, and when standards of living fall below critical thresholds, to a point of deprivation.”

He also says that one of the biggest contributors to vulnerability is inequality. Inequality can cause instability for families and increase the frequency of ups and downs, of trauma, of illness, of loss. Extremes of inequality mean that some families who live in poverty have a lower ability to cope with change or “shocks” when unexpected or adverse events occur. Stiglitz also says, “Extremes of economic inequality inevitably lead to political inequality – with the result that governments are less likely to provide the systems of social protection that can protect those at the bottom from the consequences of large shocks.” He describes shocks as adverse events, and the larger the shocks, the greater their depth and duration, the greater the resultant vulnerability. He states that we need to begin thinking of inequality not just as a moral issue – which it is – but also as a fundamental economic concern, especially relevant to any analysis of vulnerability.

For our most vulnerable families, reducing poverty will help, but reducing inequality is also necessary to reduce the number and duration of adverse events experienced by them. The implications for social services like Stand is that we must be focused on building the capacity of families to cope with and bounce back from adverse events and constantly listening and learning about when and how best to intervene to reduce vulnerability and build the resilience of each child and family.

Governance and management of Stand have one shared vision. 'A world strong with children' is one that puts children's needs first and provides the conditions that nurture personal (individual), relational and collective (community) wellbeing. To create such a world, we must make a stand against poverty and inequality, violence, isolation and fear, bringing hope, aspirations and dreams to New Zealand's most vulnerable children and their families.

We see their pain, but most importantly, we see them as children and families of promise, and the adoption of our new name has been the opportunity to consciously renew our pledge to their rights, their safety and their wellbeing, and we will stand by this pledge in the year ahead.

2013/14 has been a year of renewal and revitalisation, and none of this could have been achieved without the efforts and passion of our wonderful staff in our regions and our National Office. The Board, Kāhui Kaumātua and management would like to publicly acknowledge their outstanding and heartfelt contribution. Stand's long-term stability and strength have seen our continued growth and successful operation in 2013/14, and we look forward to a rewarding year ahead.

Purchase Health Stamps and support our nations's most vulnerable children.

Collectables Whanganui, NZ

Teaching children to grow their own fruit and vegetables not only benefits their health and wellbeing, it gives them positive attitudes towards healthy foods as well as a sense of pride and accomplishment.

New Zealand Post has been a proud supporter of the Children's Health Camps throughout the country since 1929. The 10-cent surcharge on each stamp will go directly to Stand Children's Services Tū Māia Whānau to aid the valuable service it provides to children and their families in need around New Zealand.

INDEPENDENT AUDITOR'S REPORT

To the Trustees of Stand Children's Services – Tū Māia Whānau, the trading name for Children's Health Camps – The New Zealand Foundation for Child and Family Health and Development (the Foundation).

The summary financial statements on pages 36 to 42, which comprise the summary statement of financial position as at 30 June 2014, the summary statement of comprehensive income, summary statement of changes in equity and summary statement of cash flows for the year then ended, and related notes, are derived from the audited financial statements of the Foundation for the year ended 30 June 2014. We expressed an unmodified audit opinion on those financial statements in our report dated 3 September 2014. Those financial statements, and the summary financial statements, do not reflect the effects of events that occurred subsequent to the date of our report on those financial statements.

The summary financial statements do not contain all the disclosures required for full financial statements under generally accepted accounting practice in New Zealand. Reading the summary financial statements, therefore, is not a substitute for reading the audited financial statements of the Foundation.

This report is made solely to the Foundation's Trustees, as a body, in accordance with the Trust Deed. Our engagement has been undertaken so that we might state to the Foundation's Trustees those matters we are required to state to them in our report and for no other purpose. To the fullest extent permitted by law, we do not accept or assume responsibility to anyone other than the Foundation and the Foundation's Trustees as a body, for our work, for this report or for the opinions we have formed.

TRUSTEES' RESPONSIBILITIES

The Trustees are responsible for the preparation of summary financial statements in accordance with FRS-43 Summary Financial Statements.

AUDITOR'S RESPONSIBILITIES

Our responsibility is to express an opinion on the summary financial statements based on our procedures, which were conducted in accordance with International Standard on Auditing (New Zealand) (ISA(NZ)) 810 Engagements to Report on Summary Financial Statements.

Other than in our capacity as auditor, we have no relationship with, or interest in, the Foundation.

Partners and employees of our firm may deal with the Foundation on normal terms within the ordinary course of trading activities of the business of the Foundation.

OPINION

In our opinion, the summary financial statements derived from the audited financial statements of the Foundation for the year ended 30 June 2014 are consistent, in all material respects, with those financial statements, in accordance with FRS-43.

NOTES TO THE FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

1. Reporting entity

The financial statements presented here are for the reporting entity Stand Children's Service – Tū Māia Whānau. This is the trading name for Children's Health Camps – The New Zealand Foundation for Child and Family Health and Development (the Foundation), a charitable trust incorporated under the Charitable Trusts Act 1957. The Foundation is not a qualifying entity under the differential reporting framework. The summary financial statements are for the Foundation as an individual entity.

2. Summary of significant accounting policies

Current year and comparative figures

The current reporting period is the 12 months from 1 July 2013 to 30 June 2014. Both the functional and presentation currency of the Foundation is New Zealand dollars ($). All values are rounded to the nearest thousand dollars ($000) unless otherwise stated.

Basis of preparation

These are summary financial statements of the Foundation and comply with FRS-43 Summary Financial Statements and NZ generally accepted accounting practice as it relates to summary financial statements as appropriate for public benefit entities. The financial statements have been prepared on a historical cost basis, except for land, buildings, derivatives and long-term investments, which have been measured at fair value.

Cash and cash equivalents

Cash and cash equivalents in the statement of financial position comprise cash at bank and short-term deposits with a maturity of 3 months or less that are readily convertible to known amounts of cash and that are subject to an insignificant risk of changes in value.

Contract income

Contract revenue is recognised and measured at the fair value of the consideration received or receivable to the extent it is probable that the economic benefits will flow to the Foundation and the revenue can be reliably measured.

Salaries and wages

Gross salaries and wages payable to Foundation employees are recognised as expenses with the deductions from the employees' salaries for board and lodgings separately recognised as revenue.

Property, plant and equipment

Land and buildings are measured at fair value based on a periodic valuation performed by external independent valuers, less accumulated depreciation on buildings. Valuations are performed at least triennially but more periodically where there are indications that the value may have significantly changed since the last valuation.

Property, plant and equipment are recorded at historical cost, including costs directly attributable to bringing the asset to its working condition, less any accumulated depreciation and any accumulated impairment losses. Such cost includes the cost of replacing parts that are eligible for capitalisation when the cost of replacing the parts is incurred. All other repairs and maintenance are recognised in profit or loss as incurred.

Investments

Investments and financial assets in the scope of NZ IAS 39 Financial Instruments: Recognition and Measurement are categorised as either financial assets at fair value through profit or loss, loans and receivables, held-to-maturity investments or available-for-sale financial assets. The classification depends on the purpose for which the investments were acquired. Designation is re-evaluated at each financial year end, but there are restrictions on reclassifying to other categories. The Foundation classifies its investments as financial assets at fair value through profit or loss at initial recognition. The fair value of a financial asset on initial recognition is normally the transaction price. Subsequent changes in fair value are taken to profit or loss as investment income or loss.

3. Segment reporting

The Foundation has reported by segments to assist in measuring, evaluating and managing its objectives and to assist in making decisions about allocation of its resources. It is reporting by service operations (the fulfilment of government and other contracts) and property and investments. The operations segment illustrates the real cost of fulfilling operational contracts and commitments. The property and investments segment illustrates contributions derived from property and investments that support both the operational shortfall and capital assets that are essential to service provision requirements.

5. Related-party transactions

The Foundation records that the following Trusts have been set up in whole or part to support the Children's Health Camp movement:

- The Children's Health Camp Charitable Trust (CHCCT)
- The Glenelg Children's Health Camp Charitable Trust (GHCCT).

The Trusts are related parties as some of the Trustees are also Foundation members and/or the Foundation was the principal settler of the relevant Trust. No related party debts have been written off or forgiven during the year.

Children's Health Camp Charitable Trust

In March 2014, the CHCCT was wound up with its assets transferred to Stand Children's Services, being $572,000 in cash to be invested in the Foundation's general investment fund and units in NZ Mortgage Income Trust Group Investment fund. It is the judgement of the Board that NZ Mortgage fund be recorded at $180,000 based on information supplied by Fund Managers Otago Ltd relating to the fund's current position. Fund Managers Otago Ltd state that the funds are being wound up and distributions have been frozen. Fund distribution is not expected to be for at least 3 years.
